

ASPRID
2009

ADELAIDE CONVENTION CENTRE

MONDAY 24TH AUGUST

9AM - 4PM

Registration 8.30 am

Diabetes has a significant impact on people's lives. It has long been recognized that diabetes causes emotional reactions that can affect treatment and health outcomes.

The annual ASPRID conference aims to bring together researchers and diabetes health professionals in order to explore and discuss the psychological management of people with diabetes, to better understand the wide variety of mental health consequences of diabetes, and to determine how psychological and social factors contribute to development of medical complications.

For further information and registration browse the ASPRID website on www.asprid.org.au
